

The Alan and Joyce Johnson Memorial Award was established to honour Alan (1925-1994), the first Dean of the Schulich School of Education, and his wife Joyce (1925-2009), an ardent supporter of the local arts community. Two scholarships are presented to Indigenous students graduating from the Bachelor of Education program with a strong academic standing who intend to go on to teach in an indigenous community. The recipients must demonstrate financial need. Preference for one of the scholarships will go to a student who has volunteered and played an active role in the programs offered through the Nipissing University Office of Indigenous Initiatives as an indication of interest in supporting indigenous communities.

VALUE: 2 awards at $2800

CRITERIA:

- Indigenous student registered in the Bachelor of Education program and graduating this year
- Strong academic standing
- Intention to teach in an aboriginal community
- Resident of Ontario (must have lived in Ontario at least 12 months in a row before being a full time post-secondary student) and demonstrated financial need
- Optional: volunteered and played an active role in the programs offered through the NU Office of Indigenous Initiatives

APPLICATION PROCEDURE:

1. Complete all of the sections of this application.
Note: If you applied for bursary assistance and supplied a budget to the Student Financial Services Office or if you accessed OSAP loan funding this past year, no further proof of financial need will be required.
2. Include a brief statement outlining why you think you are deserving of this award.
3. Attach a copy of proof of your Indigenous status and a copy of your CV, including at least 2 references with phone numbers and/or emails.

Print, sign and forward the completed application and supporting documentation to:
